Securities 101

Handbook for Law Enforcement Officials

Instructors: Dept. of Commerce & Insurance Securities Division

Investment schemes are on the rise, given the current state of financial markets. The state's Securities Division, part of the Tennessee Department of Commerce and Insurance, offers a basic 'Securities Law 101' course designed to familiarize law enforcement agencies and governmental officials with the statutes that regulate the sale of securities in this state.

Tennessee securities laws create a framework that governs securities firms and the stockbrokers they employ. This course will focus on tactics routinely used by con artists seeking to evade regulation, and will explore the effective means of investigating and prosecuting criminals who commit securities fraud, which is a Class D felony.

The purpose of the course is to ensure that securities fraud cases are treated with the same gravity and thoroughness as other felony cases. To that end, students taking the course will learn techniques and strategies for detecting fraud. There will be in-depth discussions of notorious, high-profile cases, as well as hands-on exercises that will illustrate the ways people can be defrauded.

Come learn ways to help Tennesseans, including senior citizens, who are especially vulnerable to fraud and who are affected the most by such white-collar crimes. By the end of the day, students will have a solid understanding of the framework of state securities laws and how those laws are often violated and will see the Securities Division as a resource and first point of contact for a potential victim.

The class will be held at the Tennessee Law Enforcement Training Academy. To register, contact Ms. Linda Spears (linda.spears@state.tn.us) at T.L.E.T.A., (615) 741-4448.

Law Enforcement Management & Administration (Signal Mountain PD)

Instructors: Farris, Rex Barton (MTAS)

The Law Enforcement Management and Administration class will provide police managers with the tools to effectively manage the various legal mandates of the state and federal governments. Most police managers rise through the ranks to become chiefs or command officers. In many cases, chiefs and command officers are ill prepared to deal with all the administrative requirements of the job. Many become aware of legal mandates after they get in trouble. This class is designed to provide chiefs and command officers with the knowledge and ability to deal with these duties in an effective and proactive manner. A block of CSA and EVOC will be included. This class will begin at 1300 hours on Monday, July 6th and end at noon on Friday, July 10th.

The class should be considered a must for newly appointed chiefs, persons in line to be in a chief's position, and command staff officers. The school will be held at the Signal Mountain Police Department located at 1111 Ridgeway Ave., Signal Mountain, TN. Point of contact at Signal Mountain PD for directions or lodging is Capt. Greg Hall at (423) 886-2137. Registration is through TLETA. Contact Linda Spears (linda.spears@state.tn.us) at (615) 741-4448.

Law Enforcement Management and Administration

Instructors: Farris, Rex Barton (MTAS)

The Law Enforcement Management and Administration class will provide police managers with the tools to effectively manage the various legal mandates of the state and federal governments. Most police managers rise through the ranks to become chiefs or command officers. In many cases, chiefs and command officers are ill prepared to deal with all the administrative requirements of the job. Many become aware of legal mandates after they get in trouble. This class is designed to provide chiefs and command officers with the knowledge and ability to deal with these duties in an effective and proactive manner. A block of CSA and EVOC will be included. This class will begin at 1300 hours on Monday, September 28th and end at noon on Friday, October 2nd.

The class should be considered a must for newly appointed chiefs, persons in line to be in a chief's position, and command staff officers. The school will be held at TLETA and registration is through TLETA. Contact Linda Spears (linda.spears@state.tn.us) at (615) 741-4448.
